Education

The Educational Conference which met in our city last week did a vast amount of good in spreading the gospel of their cause. We have endeavored to educate the people in another direction equally important. That is, to save something out of their earnings and deposit it in bank, where it will earn interest and be ready for use at any time. No community is complete without Savings Banks, and the example set by the elders is a great education for the

Another item of education which we are trying to inculcate, namely, to acquire a home and provide a shelter for your loved ones. This bank has made thousands of loans to people of moderate means, which enabled them to pay for homes, thus being owners instead of renters.

Intellectual and material education must go hand in hand, creating moral and happy communities.

One dollar starts an account. Loans made on Real Estate. Drafts on all parts of the world. Safety Deposit Boxes for rent.

The same note that predominated in southern Educational Conference, that of the need for the development of rural life in the South, will be em-phasized in the recreation meeting. The possibilities of recreation through the rural school will be one of the principal topics. Phifosophy of Play.
One of the most notable attempts at a satisfactory philosophy of play is that of George E. Johnson, who, at the Pittsburgh Congress in 1909, under the Pittsburgh Congress in 1909, under the title, "Why Teach a Child to Play?" answered forever to the satisfaction of thinkers on the question. He said: "As a child has an instinct for feeding and yet must be provided with food; as he has instinct for sleeping, and must be guided as to hours of sleep and a bed, so, though a child has the instinct to play, that instinct must be

Perhaps the most notable congress which has ever been held was that at Rochester, N. Y., in 1910. At some of the sessions of this congress more than 5,000 people were present. Social workers from all over the United States, even those whose daily vocation seemed to be apart from that of their own work might properly to recreation, and all forms on phase of soot some to recreation, and all felt that there is no phase of social work which has not some bearing upon the recreation problem. This has been even more clearly brought to the attention of the people of the United States during the recent vice investigation.
